

PARENT TRAINING PROGRAM

BHW's Chief Clinical Officer, Michael Zhe, has a special place in his heart for parents raising a child with special needs as he is also the father of a child with autism. He leads his clinical team with this conviction to always provide parents and his patients with the best standard of care because he understands what it requires to provide families the premium services they deserve. Michael will oversee the launch of our parent training program to put families on the fast track towards managing behaviors at home - thus requiring less ongoing support from our treatment team. We hope to see gains in discharging patients within shorter time frames of treatment to decreasing the risk of their dependence on such services and treatment. Watch Mike's story >>>

This parent training program is only available at our Inland Empire and Massachusetts location at this time. Enroll in this program today by contacting cares@bhwcares.com.

Personal Connection to Parent Training

Working Together in Clinical Operations

